AKA Mac & Tuttle

Mac and Tuttle currently teach mentally handicapped and autistic students at Gamble Rogers Middle School in St. Augustine, Florida. Mac and Tuttle have been team teaching for over 16 years at both elementary and middle school levels. Tuttle has taught for over 19 years after graduating from Flagler College with her masters in mental retardation. Mac graduated from University of Florida with a masters also and has taught for over 26 years. Both have been adjunct instructors for University of North Florida.

The Money Manager Program was developed by Mac and Tuttle because they needed a better method of managing classroom behavior and to teach basic money and math concepts to their students. With Money Manager, students take responsibility for their behavior and learn financial concepts and money management at the same time. Teachers are provided materials to present instruction and manage their classrooms.
