

Linda Roebuck, M.A.

Linda has a B.A. in Education and an M.A. in Counseling Psychology and holds certificates in Teaching, Counseling, and Administration and Supervision. Linda has spent 25 years in public education, first in the school systems as a teacher and guidance counselor, then at the Maryland State Department of Education where she coordinated and developed a statewide drug and alcohol intervention training program, served as the interagency coordinator until her retirement in 1999.

Linda Started teaching holistic health classes at Anne Arundel Community College in 1997 part time and soon after became the lead instructor with responsibilities for program development, staffing and marketing. Roebuck's passion is now working on a Center of Transformation (ACT) a nonprofit organization she initiated in February 2001. She says she was guided to call together those with a vision of co-creating a transformational healing and educational center.

Her life's purpose is "to inspire others to their greatness!"
